

Abstract

Inhibitors of matrix metalloproteases such as collagenase are capable of inhibiting the release of human soluble CD23 and are therefore useful in the treatment and 5 prophylaxis of conditions in which an excess of s-CD23 is implicated, such as allergy and autoimmune disease.

2025-07-07 10:00:00